Vessels Fast in the Ice-Description of the Supposed Mur-derers of Young Lehmon, 4c.

The steamer Kennebec, of the outside line to your city, started down the river, on Wednesday, to resume her regular trips; but it is now understood that she got no further than Fort Mifflin, where she became blocked in by heavy ice, and was unable either to advance or return. Yesterday the towboat Reliance started to her assistance, with plank to repair her wheels, but that return. Yesterday the towboat Reliance started to her assistance, with plank to repair her wheels, but that boat has also become involved in the same predicament, and, as viewed from the shore, appears to be unable to force her way in any direction. The towboats America and Hercules, and two oyster boats, are also hemmed up in the ice in the same vicinity. Danger is apprehended that when it breaks up, it will carry the vessels sahors, and if so, the ice will pile up on their decks, and bury them. The ice extends, as far as the eye can reach with the sid of a glass, below the mouth of the Schuylkill; the bend of the river being choled up by it, the tides have no effect. The lee boat resumed her service yesterday afternoen, and this morning was lying in an apparently helplers condition among the toc.

The perpetrators of the late butchery in Richmond seem likely to escape unwhipt of justice, through the new Governor being too busy in making appointments, and from the county treasury being so bare of funds that the police cannot obtain the "material sid" necessary to extending the hue and cry beyond the county limits. The three men were seen by several persons to depart from the house they had cooupled; and the following is believed to be an accurate description of their dress and general appearance. As their names are unknown, I shall have to allude to them by numbers. One of them, whom I shall styls No I, was about fire feet four inches high, thirty years of age, well proportioned, except his face, which was very thir; his hair was jet black, slightly, sprinkled with gray; dark, pisroing eye, with somewhate of a sinister expression. He was politic his hand.

No, 2 was rather taller than his courade, and apparently wonner; he had a light thin coates and light.

and frogs, dark steel mixed ban's, ances, and brick this crayat. When last seen, he had a russet leather value in his hand.

No. 2 was rather taller than his comrade, and apparently younger; he had a light, thin goates and light hair. He wore a light blue seek, cut in the Hungarian atyle, but without the loops and frogs; black cap, considerably worn; dark green pants, with a stripe down the seam.

style, but without the loops and frogs; black cap, considerably worn; dark green pants, with a stripe down the seam.

No. 3 was a tall, fine looking fellow, six feet high, large and stout, with full face; light brown hair, and very preminent moustache, with long twisted ends. He wore a black cap, drab overcoat dark or dark green pants, and it is believed with a dark stripe down the seam. Both of the two latter carried small boxes, and all three wore heavy gold rings on their fingers when last seen. They were rather rough in appearance, and yet having a general about them, indicating that they had seen better days, but were reduced by ethnic or misfortune. They represented themselves as being by birth a mixture of the Pole and German and they had been soldiers in the Bursian army, but during the Hungarian revolution had deserted to the popular side, afterwards they had travelled through France and come to this country. They are suppessed to have gone fouth, but may have fied to New York, as they had some small stock of money. They spoke English very baily and German worse. One of them said he understood butchering and slaughtering cattle, and the tallest one called himself a cook, having had ample practice while in the army.

The plunder they obtained comits of silver watches, of little value, and cheap jewellery, with several pairs of razors and spectacles.

Meeting of Californians in Washington. At an informal neeting of the Californians in the city of Washington, held at Brown's Hotel, on the 5th inst., Hen. Delce Strong, of Sacramento, was called to the chair, and John G. Brown, of San Francisco, was appointed Secretary.

On motion of Judge Chare, the Hon, Mr McCorkle was requested to state to the meeting the position of the various bills now before Congress for the benefit of California.

California.

Mr. McConsts responded by giving a practical and detailed account of the safety security.

Mr. McCongie respended by giving a practical and detailed account of the various measures now before Congress for the benefit of California; of their progress thus far in the two Houses, and their probable action upon them. He said California acked and needed a great deal; that her sudden growth into a great, rich, and powerful State, required immediate and prompt action; that there was a disposition on the part of Congress to listen to just demands, and, he thought, to allow them; that the only thing to be complained of was delay.

allow them; that the only thing to be complained of was delay.

On motion of Judge Crass, a committee of ten was appointed for the purpose of embodying in a report all the objects for which the meeting had been called. The fellowing persons were selected:—J. M. ANOTHER HERO GONE —Capt. John Possy, closest son of the late Major General Thomas Possy, of the Revolutionary army, died resently at Honderson, Ey, in the 79th year of his age. Capt. Peersy was born in Virginia, and served with credit as an officer of dragoons in the troop commanded by Gen. Solomon Van Renaselaer, in Wane's army during the celebrated campaign of 1755. In the Northern Torritory. By his death the venerable Gen. Yan Renaselaer, who is now restaining at Cherry Hill in Bethielem, near this city, and still in the enjoyment of fair health and the universal exteem of all who know him, remains the only surviving officer of that army. At the conclusion of that war, Captain Possy married and settled in Kenturky, where he resided until his docease, beloved and honored by all who knew him. He was agraduate of the University of Pennsylvania, a man of good same, highly cultivated mind, and refined tasto. Gentle, upright, honorable, unschristicated in heart and manners, he was one of the kindest and men generous of men. He combined the qualities of a brave solder, a polished gentleman, a devout Christian, and a true hearted man. Retired from all public duties, he spent a long life in the boson of a sumerous and amlable family, a rare example of an unambitious disinterested country gentleman, devoting the abilities and acquirements which might have addrened a high public station to the discharge of domestic duties and religious obligations, and the practice of a generous chaptailty. Kind and sincere in all his resistions, he never wronged a human being nor made an enemy, and closed an ex mplary life in the fail faith and cheerful hope of a blessed resurrection.—Albany Register, the server wronged a human being nor made an enemy, and closed an ex mplary life in the fail faith and cheerful hope of a blessed resurrection.—Albany Register, Fun 6.—Action for Cruciny at Sea.—Mary Shipman st.

John Lockhart — This was an action brought by the plaintiff for alleged imprisonment and crucity at rea. The plaintiff was, as she contended, engaged at $10 a month, to attend on the lady of the captain of the ship Beaver, bound from New York to Manila. A dispute arcse between her and the captain who insisted on her performing some work which she did not conceive to be her duty.
She became disobedient, and was ultimately seized by the captain that the Lockhart), and the supercarge who threw her down on the deak and handeuffed her. The captain died on the arrival of the vessel at Manila; and the present suit is brought sgainst the defendant, who be came captain on the homeward voyage of the Beaver. Mr. Batts, on behalf of the defendant, contends that the plaintiff was engaged as stewardes, that she objected to perform her duty, and that the captain and mate were justified in using force to bring her to subjection. Verdict for plaintiff, $200.

Court of Common Picas.

Before Hor. Judge Daly.

Ven 8 - Edward E. Burbauk et James W. Burker —

This care has occupied the court for three days. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff, on or about the 25th day of April, 1856, gave to Sciomon Silverman, for the purpose of repairing it, a gold watch and chain of the value of $126, and that, without any authority whatever from the plaintiff, Silverman unlawfully delivered them to the defendant. The proof, on the part of the plain tiff, elicited by his coursel, Mr. J. M. finish, slawed that the bought the watch and paid $166 for it—that he sfarwards gave it to Silverman, for the purpose of selling it pen commission, and that Silver Hau, in selliby an account between him and defendant, gave it to defendant to make up a deficiency of cash. It was also alleged that the defendant never got the watch, and never exercised any acts of ownership over it and that it, and the Housey paid by Silverman on accounting, were given to the defendant's counsel, and no to the defendant It appeared also in evidence that one of defendant's clocks (the defendant then being the head of the firm of James W. Burker & Go.) had been landered to pulsion goods from the clock at 10 or 16 per cent below their value; that Silverman on being charged, decided any knowledge of the theft by the clerk, but admitted the purchase of the goods at the above rates and poil to defendant's counsel the difference between the prices paid to the circ and indirect the devent and the election of the defendant in the event counsel, for the defendant and ever given the watch to the defendant, or that the defendant had ever reserved it or authorities any person to receive it for him. Mr Busteed, counsel for the defendant had ever reserved it or authorities and went to Montreal, Lower Canada, to which place a commission was leaned for his examination. For the defender it was continued that there was no proof that Eliferman bad ever given the watch to the defendant, or that the defendant had ever reserved i watch and chain to Silverman for the purpose of sale, and with authority to sell them. Silverman was vested with legal expacity to transmit a good title to a vandee; although at the time of the delivery by the plaintiff to his factor. Silverman, it was stipulated that a cortain price should be got for them and aithough the factor had violated the instructions of his principal, provided that the vendee at the time of the sale to him by the factor, was not apprised of the breach of the principal's instructions, and provided a legal conductation passed between the factor and the vendee. This the Constructured to charge, and the defendant's counsel excepted. Sealed vendet.
